A BRILLIANT CLOSING.LAST DAY OF THE CONSTITUTIONAL CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.

An Immense Gathering in Independence Square Addressed By President Cleveland—One of the Musical Features Was a Chorus of Two Thousand Voices.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—The closing day of the constitutional centennial celebration was favored with as charming weather as that of the first two days. The throngs still lingered, and the streets presented the same crowded appearance. On a triumphal arch which spanned Chestnut street was inscribed the words of that celebrated philanthropic and statesman, John Bright: All the civilized world, all who love freedom in it, must regard the event as one of the most important in the annals of men. The exercises of the day were held on Independence square on the shadow of the liberty bell, "which proclaimed liberty throughout the land" a hundred years ago.

The stand erected in Independence Square contained a representative of every branch and condition of life which goes to make up a nation. Standing alongside of the chief magistrate was the highest ecclesiastical representative, the justices of the highest courts, the foreign ministers, and representatives of the army and navy and every department of civil, military and religious life. The stand had a seating capacity of 10,000, and every seat was occupied. In front of the stand and in full view of all hung a photographic copy of the original constitution. On the east side of the stand stood the quaint old high-backed chair once occupied by George Washington as presiding officer of the congress which adopted the constitution. The Marine band was stationed on the east side of the stand and discoursed music for half an hour before the exercises commenced.

At 10:30 a chorus of 2,000 children with 200 men as leading voices, sang a patriotic air. This brought forth rounds of applause. Among the prominent persons on the stand were Hannibal Hamilton, ex-President Hayes and wife, ex-Minister Kasson, Chief Justice White, Senator Ingalls, George W. Childs, William M. Everts, Governors Laramie and Gordon, and Congressman O'Neill.

Just as the bell on the top of Independence hall announced the hour of 11 o'clock, the children's voices sent up three rousing cheers as their tribute of love to that historic building. Shortly after 11 o'clock the distinguished guests began to pour into the stand at a rapid rate. The first to mount the steps leading to the stand was President Cleveland and wife. Their appearance was the signal for tumultuous applause. As they came down the center aisle to the places assigned them on the stand the president leaned on the arm of ex-Minister Kasson, while Mrs. Cleveland leaned on the arm of Mrs. Thompson.

After the president and Mrs. Cleveland had reached the stand a general handshaking with those whom they recognized took place. After all the distinguished people had taken their seats, and the cheering subsided, Bishop Potter arose and, followed by those who occupied the reserve space on the stand with uncovered heads, made the opening prayer. The bishop read from manuscript. He invoked the blessings of the Lord on the day's proceedings, and on the president and other officials of the nation. The prayer was quite lengthy. When the bishop concluded Gen. Sheridan, with his aids, followed closely by Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Ryan and a number of Catholic clergymen, marched down the aisle, and were heartily cheered. When they had been seated the Hon. John A. Kasson made the introductory address of the day. He referred briefly to the object of the celebration and reviewed the progress of affairs from the time of the drafting of the constitution up to the present.

Cardinal Gibbons, clad in official vestments, sat at the side of the speaker, and was one of the most attentive listeners. At the conclusion of Mr. Kasson's address the chorus sang "Appeal to Truth."

The president then delivered a brief speech. He received thunders of applause. He said:

"I deem it a very great honor and pleasure to participate in these impressive exercises. Every American citizen should on this centennial day rejoice in his citizenship. He will not find the cause of his rejoicing in the antiquity of his country, for among the nations of the earth his stands with the youngest. He will not find it in the glitter and pomp that bedeck a monarch and dazzle abject and servile subjects, for in his country the people themselves are the rulers. He will not find it in the bloody foreign conquests, for his government has been content to care for its own domain and people. He should rejoice because the work of framing our constitution was completed one hundred years ago to-day, and because, when completed, it established a free government. He should rejoice because this constitution and government have survived with so many blessings, and have demonstrated so fully the strength and value of popular rule. He should rejoice in the wondrous growth and achievements of the past hundred years, and also in the glorious promise of the constitution through centuries to come. We shall fall to be duly thankful for all that was done for us one hundred years ago, unless we realize the difficulties of the work then in hand, and the dangers avoided in the task of forming 'a more perfect union' between disjointed and inharmonious states, with interests and opinions radically diverse and stubbornly maintained."

"The perplexities of the convention which undertook the labor of preparing our constitution are apparent in these earnest words of one of its most illustrious members: 'The small progress we have made after four or five weeks of close attendance and continued reasonings with each other, our different sentiments on almost every question—several of the last producing as many new as years—is, in my mind, a melancholy proof of the imperfection of the human understanding. We indeed seem to feel our want of practical wisdom, since we have been running about in search of it. We have gone back to ancient history for models of government and examined the different forms of those republics, which having been found with the seeds of their own desolation now no longer exist. In this situation of this assembly, groping as it were in the dark to find political truth, and scarce able to distinguish it when presented to us, how has it happened, sir, that we have not heretofore thought of humbly applying to the Father of Light to illuminate our understandings?'"

"I have lived, sir, a long time, and the longer I live the more convincing proofs I see of the truth that God governs in the affairs of men. And if a sparrow can not fall to the ground without his notice, is it probable that an empire can rise without his notice? We have been assured, sir, in the sacred writings that, except the Lord build the house, their labor is vain that build it. I firmly believe this, and I also believe that without His concurring therein we shall succeed in this political building no better than the builders of Babel. We shall be divided by no little partial interests our projects will be confounded, and we ourselves shall become a reproach and byword down to future ages; and what is worse, mankind may hereafter from this unfortunate instance despair of establishing governments by human wisdom and leave it to chance, war and conquest."

"In the face of all discouragements the fathers of the republic labored on for four weary long months in alternate hope and fear, but always with rugged resolve, never faltering in a sturdy endeavor, sanctified by a prophetic sense of the value to posterity of their success, and always with unflinching faith in the principles which make the foundation of a government by the people. At last their task was done. It is related that upon the back of the chair, occupied by Washington as president of the convention, a sun was painted and that as the delegates were signing the completed constitution, one of them said: 'I have often and often, in the course of the session and in the solitude of my hopes and fears as to its issue, looked at that behind the president without being able to tell whether it was rising or setting. But now at length I know that it is a rising and not a setting sun.'"

"We stand to-day on the spot where this rising sun emerged from political night and darkness, and in its own bright meridian light we mark its glorious way. Clouds have sometimes obscured its rays and dreiful storms have made us fear, but God has held it in its course and through its life-giving warmth has performed His latest miracle in the creation of this wondrous land and people. As we look down that past century to the origin of our constitution; as we contemplate the trials and its triumphs; as we realize how completely the principles upon which it is based, have met over National peril and every National creed, how devoutly should we confess with Franklin 'God governs in the affairs of men,' and how solemn should be the reflection that to our hands is committed this work of the people's covenant, and that ours is the duty to shield it from impious hands. We receive it sealed with the tests of a century. It has been found sufficient in the past; and in all the future years it will be found sufficient if the American people are true to their sacred trust."

"Another centennial day will come, and millions yet unborn will inquire concerning our stewardship and the safety of their constitution. God grant that they may find it unimpaired; and as we rejoice in the patriotism and devotion of those who lived a hundred years ago so may others who follow us rejoice in our fidelity and in our jealous love for constitutional liberty."

The old Liberty bell rung out the midday hour, and at every stroke of the bell there was a round of applause. This incident occurred when the president was in the middle of his speech, and he was obliged to pause for a few seconds. The sight was indeed an impressive one as the president stood there with uncovered head awaiting the plaudits of a liberty-loving people in honor of the bell which first announced their freedom. It was about five minutes past 12 when the president finished, and he at once retired to his seat. While the applause was still going on the chorus broke into a patriotic air, and the din was terrific.

When quiet was restored United States Supreme Court Justice Miller stepped to the front of the stand and facing the assembled dignitaries began the delivering of his oration. He held his audience spell-bound and was followed with rapt attention. He read his address from manuscript. He described freely the work of forming the constitution and the objections made to the drawing up of the instrument. He also touched on the mode of selecting United States senators. He closed his address with the recitation of a quotation from Chancellor Kent as follows: "The government of the United States was erected by the free voice and joint will of the people of America for their common defense and general welfare. Its powers apply to those great interests which relate to this country in its National capacity and which depend for their stability and protection on the consolidation of the Union. It is clothed with the principal attributes of sovereignty and is justly deemed the guardian of our best rights, the source of our highest civil and political duties, and the sure means of our National greatness."

During the oration Mrs. Cleveland sat beside Secretary Bayard who gallantly protected her from the sun's rays.

Justice Miller's address consumed one hour and ten minutes.

The new National hymn, which was contributed by Marion Harland, was then recited by Professor Murdock, with a chorus of two hundred men's voices.

Shortly before 2 o'clock President Kasson took the arm of Cardinal Gibbons and led him to the front of the stand. After bowing to the people in front of the stand, the cardinal turned slowly around to where the president sat and in a clear distinct voice offered prayer to Almighty God. He was listened to with the closest attention. At the conclusion the band played the Star Spangled Banner. An impressive benediction was pronounced by the Rev. Jere Witherspoon, of Nashville. This concluded the ceremonies.

Will Not Advance a Penny.

HAZLETON, Pa., Sept. 19.—Purdue & Cox Bros. & Co., the largest operators in the Lehigh region, stated that they will not grant a penny advance in wages. They claim that the price of coal does not warrant an advance. The strikers are very determined.

REVOLUTION IN IRELAND.FEARS OF A SERIOUS OUTBREAK ON THE EMERALD ISLE.

The National League, Undaunted By the Government's Proclamation, Announces Four Meetings at Which There is Likely to Be Bloodshed—Foreign News.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The National League, undaunted by the government's proclamation, calmly indifferent to the imprisonment inevitably awaiting its members, but at the same time keenly active to the sufferings of its country, have announced four meetings. It is not improbable that these meetings will be the scenes of trouble, perhaps bloodshed, for the Irish people have now reached that stage when further interference with their rights will cause them to return blow for blow. They are in a fit mood to avenge the outrages at Mitchellstown, and if the police attempt to break up the meetings on Sunday, there is little doubt of the result of such a proceeding.

"Mitchellstown" has been a watchword all over Ireland, and thousands are ready to devote their lives, if necessary, to the maintenance of their rights to speech. The league has perhaps taken the best course for trying the strength and ability of the government. The places at which the meetings are to be held are widely separated. Roscommon, where one is to be held, is a long distance to the north of Kilmacshoma, where the most southern meeting will be held. The police will be obliged to send four divisions simultaneously, one to each of the towns containing a meeting. This will somewhat divide their forces.

Mr. Balfour who has been in Dublin for the past two days, has been laying his plans, however, and it is reported that he had already got wind of the league's projects, and has arranged accordingly. At any rate he has been unusually busy and has been recruiting and drilling his forces with a view to hold himself in readiness for any emergency. Intest runs high as to what the day will bring forth, and many are the speculations ventured. Numerous knots of excited men gather at all times in the street, in the field, or at houses, and fierce and angry are the expressions hurled at the government. A revolution is imminent in Ireland, and if her people were stronger instead of destitute and half starved, England would meet a more powerful foe than a few men who are handy with the black thorne. That the league leaders are fearful of some dreadful outbreak is certain, and to caution moderation now seems almost useless.

It is expected that some of the English Home Rule deputation, now in Ireland, will speak at these meetings, but this is not openly given out. The leaders of the league feel that the words of the Englishmen will have unselfishly devoted themselves to the cause of Erin, will have a weight with the people that their own would not have on account of the absence of self interest on the parts of these men. What the day will bring forth is a subject of surmise in every body's heart, and on nearly every one's lips. Will it mark the beginning of an implacable hatred that will never be appeased until vengeance is required? Will it result in the shedding of blood that shall bear in its flowing the dreadful lust of crime and terror which will not cease until the whole kingdom is convulsed with horror.

Accidents on English Railroads.

LONDON, Sept. 19.—The latest returns from the scene of the horrible disaster near Doncaster go to show that as many as twenty-eight passengers were killed, while of the many wounded several are expected to die. On the occasion of the recent terrible railway accident in Illinois the papers here were loud in their praise of the English railway system, claiming that accidents of that kind could not occur here. The sad evidence in rebuttal of the assertion has come very quickly. Moreover, the board of trade returns of the accidents which have taken place during the past six months, which are published to-day, do show that the record of the English railway is far from being as excellent as it was supposed. No less than eighteen collisions of passenger trains are reported, by which seventy-one passengers were killed or injured seriously, while twelve collisions of freight trains are reported, by which eighty-four persons were killed or injured.

Nihilistic Power.

St. PETERSBURG, Sept. 19.—A pamphlet has been circulated here which announces the reorganization of the Nihilists in new power and strength. It states that the organization is spreading in Siberia, where, in August forty-five guards over prisoners decamped and twenty-three prisoners escaped into freedom.

FOUND IN A TREE.

Horrible Torture Inflicted Upon a Young Girl by Her Inhuman Step-Father.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 19.—A remarkable case of a negro step-father's cruelty was developed yesterday. Five years ago Joseph Brown, who resided within five miles of the city, married a widow with one daughter, who is now fourteen years of age. Two weeks ago she disappeared from home, and, although the neighbors instituted a search, her whereabouts remained undiscovered. On Tuesday last several colored boys went fishing along the Ogeechee river. While exploring a creek near the Savannah, Florida & Western railroad they were startled by hearing cries emanating from bushes on the banks. On investigation they were astonished to discover a half-nude girl in a tree in the marsh. One of the boys waded cautiously over to the spot.

The girl was found so cramped from sitting in the branches, and so weak from hunger and thirst that she was scarcely able to tell her sad story. On the Friday previous she was whipped by her step-father until she could scarcely stand, and the same night he took her out of the house, threatening to kill her if she did not go along quietly, and made her walk three miles across the country to the river. Finally he came to a place where a small boat was found. Brown bade the girl enter it, and rowed through the creek until he reached the island on which she was found, and then he threw her out in the marsh, leaving her with nothing to eat or drink. The island is in an isolated spot, and the girl was frightened almost to death when Brown rowed away in the darkness. When the tide came up she waded further in the marsh, sinking in the mud every step. She spied the dead tree in which she was discovered, and climbed into it, fearing that her inhuman step-father would return and murder her.

A HUNTING TRAGEDY.

A Young Man Mistakes His Friend for a Lion and Shoots Him Dead.

DENVER, Col., Sept. 19.—A sad tragedy occurred last evening at the Twin Mountain ranch, of Howard Windham, near this city, resulting in the death of a young man named George Gordon. Gordon came to America three weeks ago, accompanied by his friend and college mate, Mr. A. A. Whitehouse. Both were Oxford students. They were visiting Mr. Windham with a view to future investments in the stock business. The young man on Wednesday saw two antelopes near the Windham branch, and went together to capture the game. After stalking antelopes for several hours, one of the animals disappeared, and the other was seen in a little gulch where the hunters thought they could get him. It was agreed that Gordon should steal along the gulch on one side, while Whitehouse should creep along the bottom, so that the game should not escape, and the two separated.

It was now dusk, and after walking some distance, Whitehouse caught sight of an object moving through the sage brush about 120 yards ahead. He took a look and decided that it was a mountain lion. He then fired and the object fell. Calling to his partner and receiving no answer, and having heard of the dangerous character of lions when wounded, he fired three more shots, and then supposed the object to be dead; he approached it and was horrified to find that he had killed his friend. The bullet struck Gordon in the right temple and passed through his head coming out of the neck below the left ear. The body was brought to Laramie. Gordon was twenty-two years of age.

THE WOOL MARKET.

Business Continues of Moderate Proportions, With Improvement in Tone.

New York, Sept. 19.—Bradstreet's, in the summary of the wool market, says that business continues of moderate proportions in all the eastern markets. Prices are well sustained, on the basis of the last two or three weeks, and though they are in buyers' favor, there are no symptoms of any further decline. In some quarters, indeed, a little improvement in tone is reported. Most of the manufacturers who take supplies now call for prompt shipments, indicating that stocks at the mills are relatively small.

Still there is no general disposition to depart from the long continued and very successful policy of buying only for near by requirements. A good deal of wool, particularly the finer descriptions, is still held in the country by farmers or speculators, and is not pressed for sale. These sorts are as cheap as they have been for several years, and comparatively cheaper in the country. Wool, which is selling for 33 to 34 cents in New York and Boston, is held at 31 to 33 cents in Ohio, at which price, after paying all expenses, there can be but little profit to the dealer. Fall California wool is arriving in the San Francisco market.

The advances from the London sales are more encouraging than the trade in this country have generally looked for. Though the offerings average poorly, the attendance of buyers is large and competition for English consumption is active, with a tendency to advance in prices. Little is doing on American account. In Australia requests continue to be preferred for 1-4d hids at London.

The Boston market shows no change this week in any particular. Trade has been good some days but bad others, and some houses report fair transactions, but others none at all. The manufacturers appear to be in a rather better position than two or three months ago. They are receiving orders of more or less extent for light weight goods.

In the aggregate, however, the business is still disappointing, and there is little encouragement for stocking up freely with materials. Michigan wool is a shade firmer and the fine descriptions generally are steady, partly because they are already very cheap. The highest values of the year for the first four sorts quoted in the table below were made in January, and the lowest have prevailed since the middle of August, the decline ranging from two cents to four cents per pound. Territory wool is, if anything, weaker than at the last report.

The sales of the week at Boston have amounted to 1,883,000 pounds as compared with 2,000,000 pounds last week, and 5,000,000 in the corresponding week a year ago.

At Philadelphia wool is moving slowly and the market is weak to sell, particularly for fine fleeces and territory wools, which constitute the bulk of the local supply. Concessions of one-half to one cent have been made in some cases to influence business. Medium fleeces are comparatively steady under small stocks, but demand is light.

Fell Forty Feet.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 19.—John Spencer, a young man twenty years of age, was engaged at Slickaway, a small place ten miles from here, in shingling a house. He slipped and fell a distance of forty feet, striking on some rocks. He suffered a severe fracture of a leg and arm, the broken bones protruding from the skin, besides internal injuries. His recovery is despaired of.

Miners After a Murderer.

MINERSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 19.—There is great excitement here over the murder of William James, the fire boss at the Glen Carbon colliery yesterday. The murderer was concealed in a clump of bushes, whence he fired the charge of buckshot that riddled James' body. The workmen were notified, and in a short time a hundred men were searching for the assassin. James died at noon, and leaves a wife and five children. There has been nothing to equal the excitement since the Mollie Maguire.

Decapitated While Drunk.

GREEN CAMP, O., Sept. 19.—Last night, while endeavoring to evade arrest, Martin Johnson, of Owens, fell before a moving train and was decapitated. He was intoxicated at the time.

MONDAY EVE., SEPT., 19, 1887.

"NATURAL GAS," a paper that was started at Ashland some time ago, has suspended publication.

The Government has saved $1,000,000, it is estimated, by the purchase of $10,500,000 bonds. More than that it has placed some of the surplus that has been shut up in the Treasury into circulation.

DURING the past fiscal year, fifty-five thousand new pensioners were added to the already large list. This ought to convince Tuttle, Fairchild and Foraker that the administration is not unfriendly to the old soldiers.

The question of mixed schools is giving more or less trouble at a number of points in Ohio. At New Richmond, we understand the negroes are threatened with a "boycott" if they persist in attending the white schools.

In 1884, the Republicans carried Minnesota by 40,000 majority. Last year their majority was only 2,000. One need not be surprised to see the Democrats carry that State at the next election. Democracy is on the increase in the Northwest.

REPRESENTATIVE-ELECT ELBRIDGE KENTON, of Robertson County, has bought "Forest Retreat," a farm of two hundred and fifty-five acres in Nicholas County that was once owned by General Metcalfe. Fifty dollars an acre was the price paid.

ALL this trouble between Cleveland and the G. A. R. originated in his veto of the Dependent Pension bill. The old soldiers should remember that Simon Cameron and many other prominent Republicans endorsed the President's action in doing as he did with that bill.

FROM the way the surplus is being piled up monthly in the Treasury, it would seem that Sunset Cox was right when he said the other day that "not only party policy, but public policy, the public good, demand that prompt action shall be taken by Congress in the way of tax reduction."

ANOTHER Kentucky county has been heard from that is in trouble with her debt. This time it is Muhlenburg, and she owes more railroad debt than she can pay. The bondholders ought to recognize that the easiest solution of the question is to compromise the matter, as was done in Taylor County.

"THE Grand Army of the Republic has exhibited more malice toward General Black, Commissioner of Pensions," says an exchange, "than any other member of the Administration except Mr. Cleveland; and yet General Black is a mained soldier, has adjudicated and granted more pensions in two years than his predecessor did in four. It is only because he is a Democrat that he is hated and denounced."

"THE Secretary of the Treasury is receiving great and deserved credit," says the Cincinnati Enquirer, "for the result of the last bond offerings. He managed to gather in some $4,000,000, most of it at less than 1.08, all of it at less than 1.08. Recalling the prices which ruled when the Treasury proposition to buy first made its appearance, even the Republican enemy is forced to admire both the honesty and the sagacity of the Administration in the matter of finances."

"Throw Physic to the Dogs" when it is the old-fashioned blue mass, blue pill sort, and insist on using Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," a modern medical luxury, being small, sugar-coated granules, containing the active principles of certain roots and herbs, and which will be found to contain as much cathartic power as any of the old-fashioned, larger pills, without the latter's violent, drastic effects. The pellets operate thoroughly but harmlessly, establishing a permanently healthy action of the stomach and bowels, and as an anti-bilious remedy are unequalled.

Approach of Autumn.
 The autumn days are drawing near,
 The dying glories of the year,
 When time unveils the ripened sheaves
 And sunset dyes adorn the leaves.
 A clearer blue now paints the skies,
 As through the trees the wind sprits sighs,
 While farther southward swings the sun,
 And coal's a dollar more a ton.
 —Boston Budget.

"A little fire is quickly trodden out,
 Which, being suffered, rivers cannot quench."
 Procrastination may rob you of time, but by increased diligence you can make up the loss; but if it rob you of life the loss is irremediable. If your health is delicate, your appetite fickle, your sleep broken, your mind depressed, your whole being out of sorts, depend on it you are seriously diseased. In all such cases Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" will speedily effect a genuine, radical cure—make a new man of you and save you from the tortures of lingering disease.

Stock and Crops.
 The Kentuckian-Citizen reports very little tobacco in Bourbon County, and what there is, is about all cut.

William Muir, of Fayette County, has refused an offer of fifteen cents for his 1887 crop of tobacco, so says the Gazette.

BUCKNER Wood, of Paris, has sold his interest in a sheep ranch in Fleming County to his Uncle, Samuel Clay, for $22,000.

G. N. Bataille, of Clark, sold to Chas. Bailey, of Woodford, the premium three-year-old saddle stallion, Victor Jewell, for $1,000.

The recent severe drouth has delayed the sowing of wheat, but the rain in the past day or so will enable the farmers to commence the work at once.

The acreage of wheat sown in Bourbon County notwithstanding the very low price offered for the present crop will be fully up to the average, says the News.

In Knox County, this State, abundant crops of all kinds are reported, the corn being especially fine. The county escaped the severe drouth that visited other parts of the State.

Jay-Eye-See and Patron are matched to trot at Chicago for $5,000 a side. This race will take place October 5th. It will be the great trotting event of the year. Jay-Eye-See's record is 2:10 and that of Patron 2:14. The latter has beaten the three-year-old stallion record by almost four seconds.

T. T. Ewing, of Chattanooga, bought a trotting horse from Henry Jackson, of Chicago, the negotiations being conducted by telegraph. Ewing, being dissatisfied with his purchase, had Jackson arrested and taken to Chattanooga to answer a charge of swindling. Judge Key, of the U. S. Court, ordered him released on the ground that he could not be punished in Tennessee for an offense committed in Illinois.

William Claxton and Mary Wood, Mason County.

Card from Rev. E. W. Green.
 Mr. Editor: Please allow me space in your valuable paper to state to the public that on the morning of the 7th of this month Elder Jamison, pastor of the Plymouth Church, called at my residence, in company with two of his Deacons, to get our church to have meeting in, as they were out of a place of worship; and as there has been a great deal of gossiping about the matter, I thought I would give all a chance to know how the matter stands. I told Elder Jamison our church meeting was on the first of the month, but as that night (the 7th), would be our prayer meeting night, I would put it before the house and they voted against it. Now I wish to say I am strictly governed by the Church Directory in church matters. The Directory says all business should be announced from the pulpit one Sabbath before, and that a full attendance should be present, but as I didn't know they wanted the church I could not announce it. We lettered them out of our church August, 1884, but since that time they have gone against Baptist usages by taking in our excluded members and under these circumstances I could not give my consent for them to have the house without bringing it before the church. As for as the pastor, Elder Jamison, is concerned, we are good friends. I try to do right by everybody and, if I miss it, it is not of the heart. I am like the Apostle Paul, "Neither count I my life dear unto me that I might finish my race with joy, and the ministry that I have received of the Lord." Yours for Christ,
 E. W. GREEN.

Saved His Life.
 Mr. D. I. Wilcoxson, of Horse Cave, Ky., says he was, for many years, badly afflicted with phthisis, also diabetes; the pains were almost unendurable and would sometimes almost throw him into convulsions. Says he positively believes he would have died, had it not been for the relief afforded by Electric Bitters. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by J. C. Pecor & Co., and S. P. Campbell & Co., of Aberdeen Ohio.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW.

R. S. DUN & CO.'S REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF BUSINESS.Stringency of the Money Market in Spite of Supplies from Abroad—Effect of the Recent Failures in Philadelphia—Failures for the Past Seven Days.

New York, Sept. 19.—R. S. Dun & Co., in their weekly review of trade, say: All anticipations of monetary stringency this fall, which were expressed months ago, are abundantly justified by the pressure now felt in spite of supplies from abroad far beyond reasonable anticipations. Were the merchandise movement alone to control, gold would be going out in large amounts; instead, gold is coming in largely through operations of syndicates, in purchase of securities or for other investments or loans, and yet the pressure is severe. The Boston market is tight, many millions having been sent west for railroad building or other operations.

Philadelphia is cautious because of recent failures, and consequences not wholly disclosed; Cincinnati banks are forced to special conservatism by the C., H. & D. uncertainties and the effects of the Fidelity collapse; Chicago reports an enormous business done by note-brokers, and high rates bid by merchants and manufacturers; stringency is reported at Nashville and at Atlanta, with active demand at full rates at New Orleans, and the demand in Cleveland, Omaha, Kansas City and other western cities is unusually brisk on account of activity in trade or in building.

The treasury continues to absorb money. It holds at all points $2,500,000 more gold than last Saturday, and $200,000 more legal tenders, against $700,000 less silver. But treasury absorption obviously does not account for the scarcity, in view of the large imports of gold, and the conclusion is unavoidable that the drain of money to the west and south is unusually large. Great difficulty in making time loans, because New York banks have no money to spare except on call, depresses stocks and begins to cause curtailment of commercial transactions. Months ago it was foreseen that real estate speculation, and the attempt to do in one year all the building needed for several years to come, would cause some embarrassment, which is now felt.

The weekly production of pig iron is not smaller than a year ago, as some assert, but according to the Iron Age, an increase of 19 per cent. Except for a few grades, the tone is weaker, and heavy imports continue, with much complaint of undervaluations.

Wheat has been dull and lower, in spite of reduction of ocean rates to 1d for grain to Liverpool. Large exports from California in August, at a nominal price above $1 per bushel, are officially reported, and suggest that the effects of the corner are yet felt at Liverpool.

Corn is a shade lower, with somewhat better prospects as to yield, but there is no longer doubt that the crop was greatly diminished by the drought, another effect of which is seen in heavy shipments of cattle to a depressed market. Oil "boomed" to about seventy-five cents on reports of a meeting of producers at Pittsburg on Monday, but collapsed to sixty-two cents on Wednesday, recovering a little since. The wool market drags lifeless. The boot and shoe trade still improves, and dry goods are fairly sustained, but with irregularity in the demand, which makes some qualities scarce while others move slowly.

Exports of breadstuffs, provisions, cotton, cattle and oil in August were $37,000,000 in value, 6.3 per cent. above the same month last year. But imports at New York for August show an increase of 15 per cent. Gold comes this way, not in payment for goods, but as a loan.

The business failures during the last seven days number for the United States 105, for Canada, 23, total 128, compared with 174 last week and 185 for the corresponding week of last year.

THE ANARCHISTS.

Several of Them Willing to Abide by the Decision of the Court.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—The Anarchists condemned to die November 11 are pulling one way in the efforts to save their lives and their friends are pulling another. The convicted men are opposed to an appeal to Governor Oglesby for executive clemency, and three of them are even opposed to their case going to the United States supreme court. They prefer to let the sentences stand, but their friends believe that a live Anarchist is worth more than a dead one, and the amnesty association has already started upon the road a petition to the governor asking him to commute the sentence to imprisonment for life.

The petition says that "in any case involving life, humanity and the state are better served by vigorous execution of a sentence, the justice of which is questioned by many of our people," and urges that the granting of the petition "will conduce to the peace of the state." The association will confine its work to this state.

The Anarchists are having many visitors. There is a young woman who is devoting a good deal of attention to Lingg, and it is conjectured that another proxy marriage is on foot. The number of curious people who want to see the Anarchists is increasing steadily.

Caught Under a Derrick.

BROOKVILLE, Ind., Sept. 19.—A frightful accident occurred at the wagon bridge in course of construction near Stave-town Friday morning about 11 o'clock. As workmen were drawing up a large stone one of the guy ropes gave way and the huge derrick fell, catching Robert Cooksey, breaking his leg and mangle him so badly about the face and body that he died in great agony about two hours later. He was the support of his widowed mother. Walt Hamlin also received serious injuries, but they are not dangerous.

Alive, But Greatly Disfigured.

QUEBEC, Sept. 19.—The three men reported killed by the explosion at the St. Anne coronation on Wednesday are still alive, but horribly mutilated. Two of them—Blondeau and Sylvain—are not expected to recover. The third man is disfigured for life.

Another Chatsworth Victim.

CHATSWORTH, Ill., Sept. 19.—The last of the wounded of the ill-fated Niagara excursion remaining, B. R. Borden, died yesterday. This places the total number of victims at five.

An Incendiary Fire.

MARIETTA, O., Sept. 19.—The Marietta oil works, situated in Harmer-owned and operated by L. W. Morten, were burned to the ground at eleven last night. A portion of the works were burned a few weeks ago, catching from escaping gas, but this time there is no doubt that it was the work of an incendiary. There is considerable circumstantial evidence. The loss was $2,500 with a small insurance.

The Weather.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Indications—Slightly warmer, fair weather, followed by local rains, light to fresh winds, generally easterly.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Quotations of the Money, Stock, Produce and Cattle Markets for Sept. 17.

New York—Money 4½ per cent. Exchange steady. Governments steady.

Currency sixes, 122 bid; four coupons, 124½ four-and-a-half, 107½ bid.

The stock market this morning was extremely dull, only 78,000 shares changing hands from the opening to the close; the tone of speculation was firm, however, and prices worked gradually up throughout the first hour. There was a moderate buying of the leading stocks on the statement that the cut rates of some of the railroads would be restored September 23. Shortly after 11 o'clock on the appearance of the bank statement showing a decrease of over $300,000 in the reserve, there was considerable unloading and prices reached to about last night's figures.
